Candy Boat 31-2 Feet Long. Mitchell Constantine, the Greek candy maker at E. L. Prince's, has made a fine candy boat that is on exhibition in one of the store's show windows. The piece of handwork weighs about sixty pounds and is made entirely of candy with the exception of a thin wire frame. The smokestacks and masts and all the rest of the details are worked well. The miniature vessel is 31-2 feet long and consumed fifty pounds of sugar and three dozen eggs in its construction.

NEW SERVICE.

New Haven to Enlarge Express Lines by Taking Hartford Concern.

The New Haven road through the Connecticut company will on the expiration of contract take over on January 1st the trolley system of express service of George B. Evans of Hartford, the service in that city reaching to New Britain, Unionville, Windsor, Rockville, Manchester and South Manchester. By connecting at New Britain the express trolley system centering at New Haven will now be merged with the Hartford system.

The New Haven system now has nineteen trips each way to various points, including four to Bridgeport, three to Waterbury, two to Meriden, two to Seymour, two to Stony Creek and two to Wallingford, and also runs cars from Waterbury to Thomaston and Watertown and Woodbury. From this last mentioned town there has been established a milk route to Waterbury and New Haven.

The trolley express business, it is stated, is also to be greatly amplified on the Rhode Island system centering at Providence. The last report of the Connecticut company showed that for the year ending June 30, 1909, its business in the state had increased from $137,463 to $224,294.

Growth of Non-partisanship. The Springfield Union, which for some time has stood for non-partisanship in city affairs, finds in the results of the election in that city evidence that a large number of voters are coming to the same way of thinking. The results showed that some of the republicans were carried by the republican candidates for mayor, while some of the republican strongholds were carried by the democratic candidate.

This non-partisanship was manifested clearly in the majority of the voters sticking more closely to party lines in their choice for other officials. This leads The Union to the conclusion that "little attention is paid these days to party designations in municipal elections where the candidates are clearly defined and into which the personalities of the candidates enter." There is much to indicate that not only in Springfield, but in other cities, adherence to party, so far as municipal affairs are concerned, is weakening. This is in effect no disturbing to The Union—a strong re-weakening. This in effect is not disturbing to thinking and unbiased men anywhere.

The change that is taking place in this particular is highly encouraging. It gives promise of better city government in the future than there has been in the past. It shows that voters and taxpayers are opening their eyes to their own interests and demanding for service in city offices men qualified by character and ability for the work to be performed, rather than those whose sole recommendation is that they are "straight party men."

A NATURAL COMPASS.

How the Trees Point the Way Through the Wilderness.

A famous Canadian guide of whom his friends assert that you could take him up in a balloon blindfolded and he would find his way home told long ago how he did it.

"Is it true," said the New York man, "that you can find your way back to camp every time and in the straightest line possible?"

"That's what they say," admitted the old guide, "and," he added apologetically, "I should be ashamed of myself if it wasn't pretty close to the truth."

"But how do you do it?"

"Well, sometimes I know pretty well where I am—I mean, in a general way—and I feel the direction of the camp or whatever place it is I want to reach. You know that it is an entirely different proposition from merely getting out of a forest or a section of country. The man who doesn't know where he is at any time is in a ways follow the stream and get somewhere some time if he holds out long enough."

"But that is a different matter from taking an objective point, even imaginary, and then going straight through the wilderness to that point. Perhaps not many guides themselves can do that with absolute success, though it seems a very simple thing to me."

"Do you mean that you can hold a perfectly straight course through thick woods and across broken country without a compass or sunlight to guide?"

"As straight a course as could be followed in such country."

"What is your guide, the moss or growth on the shaded side of tree trunks?"

"No. That's not to be depended on. Sometimes the dampness collects on the north side of a tree, sometimes on the east side, sometimes on another side. You can't depend on it, for it may be one thing in one ravine and just the opposite where currents of air and relative positions of tree and of water are reversed."

"But there is one thing which in any general stretch of country is infallible. That is the inclination of the trees. If you know what is the prevailing wind of the region where you are it seems to me that anybody with half an eye ought to be able to hold a straight course."

"Of course you won't find the trees in thick woods bending at a decided angle as you will find those on exposed ground. But if you observe carefully you will detect enough variation from a straight perpendicular to keep you going true. That's the secret of my sense of direction. It's a secret every man in the woods can share."—N. Y. Sun.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Paw Paw, Mich.—"I suffered terribly from female ills, including inflammation and congestion, for several years. My doctor said there was no hope for me but an operation. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I can now say I am a well woman."

Another Operation Avoided.

Chicago, Ill.—"I want women to know what that wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has done for me. Two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation, and I never thought of seeing a well day again. I had a small tumor and female troubles so that I suffered day and night. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it made me a well woman."

—Mrs. ALVINA SPERLING, 11 Langdon St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the results have been worth millions to many suffering women.
